Operational and Tactical Analysis in Al Anbar Province, Western Iraq

CDR Doug Burton

Operations Research Department
Naval Postgraduate School

During 2007, I deployed to Camp Fallujah with the U.S. Marines of Multi-National Forces-West (MNF-W) in Al Anbar Province, Iraq.

I worked in the Science and Technology Directorate for MNF-W as their Lead Analyst. My charter consisted of examining different systems that are deployed to or are being considered for deployment to MNF-W and advising the Commander about the operational and tactical effectiveness of those systems.

This presentation and discussion is the second in a series of three presentations about my experiences during this tour of duty. We will discuss the analysis of several MNF-W systems to include the significant contribution of several NPS OR faculty to these analyses.

Part 3 will be a discussion about analysts in Iraq and is scheduled for February 28.

Date: Thursday, February 21, 2008
